Kanawa raises enough to fund location study

Not all the enthusiasm for bringing the Kanawa canoe collection to Haliburton Village has faded. Individuals and organizations have continued to support the drive and the Haliburton County Historical Society now has enough money to move ahead with the feasibility study.

In early January, the society approached county council for a donation toward a study to determine if the proposed Glebe Park location for a museum is sound. However council met this request with a cool response, approving a donation of $2,000, which was much less than the group had hoped.

Public interest in this outstanding collection of boats and canoes remains high, though. Frank Wallace from the Historical Society said last week that the $12,500 goal for local funding for this study has been met. The provincial government is expected to contribute another $42,500 to make this study a reality.

Wallace said that over the next few weeks the society will be finalizing the terms of reference for the feasibility study, and he expects it will be put out for tenders by the end of March. The study will determine if Glebe Park in Haliburton Village is a suitable location for such a collection.

Nurses protest 'rip-off'

Workers were picketing in front of the Minden Hospital last Monday to protest the Ontario Hospital Association's plans to not contribute to the employees' pension fund this year. The demonstration was part of a province-wide protest and not directed at the Minden Hospital.

In a show of solidarity, 11 of the 14 workers at the Minden Hospital walked a picket line for an hour and a half last Monday objecting to the Ontario Hospital Association's "rip off" of pension funds.

Minden's demonstration was one of many staged at hospitals across the province. Gwen Hewitt, CUPE local 2787 president, said the picketing here was in no way a demonstration against the local hospital. Instead, it was a show of anger at the Association's decision not to contribute its share to the pension fund this year.

According to Hewitt, the pension fund for hospital workers has a surplus of $920-million, which has accumulated mainly through interest. Because of this surplus, the Association's board decided not to make its annual contribution of about $80-million to the fund this year.

Picketting began at noon in front of the hospital and carried on until about 1:30 p.m. One at a time, those who were on duty took turns staffing the picket line along with co-workers who had the day off. The picketting was done during the lunch break in this manner to ensure that patient care was not interrupted, said Hewitt.

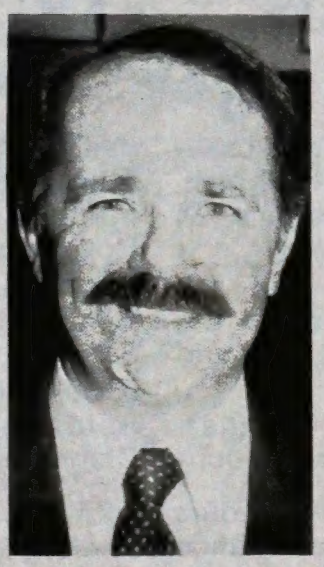
With 11 of the 14 workers taking part, "we had excellent membership participation," Hewitt said. "It shows how angry our members are over the hospitals dipping into the pension fund to give themselves a contribution holiday and how much our members want the improvements in pensions that we seek."

The picket action shows that the three major hospitals unions are unified over this issue and they are willing to co-operate to achieve their pension goals, said Hewitt. It is still too soon to measure the results from Monday's demonstrations, but Hewitt said the unions are prepared to pursue this in the courts if necessary.

College selects new president

It was an Olympic-like task in choosing the new President of Sir Sandford Fleming College, said board Chairman Richard Gorwill, and aptly enough, the victor was another Brian.

Brian L. Desbiens was appointed to the position last Tuesday and attended a reception at the Norman A. Sisco campus on Wednesday morning. The present principal at the Thames campus of St. Clair College of Applied Arts and Technology will officially begin his new role as SSFC President on May 1.



Brian L. Desbiens

Desbiens is excited about coming to SSFC, and said he knows of the school's reputation of excellence. His initial introduction to Haliburton County and the Sisco campus was a pleasant one. He said he was impressed with the "striking geography" of the area as well as the facilities at the campus. He said it is evident that the college is filling the needs of the area with its various programs.

The immediate challenge ahead for Desbiens will be in gaining an appreciation for the strengths and weaknesses of the college. He said he will have to rely heavily on Gorwill, the staff and the faculty during the initial months for this information. "As president, one of the main tasks will be to get to know the staff," he said.

Desbiens' expansive career includes more than 20 years of progressive experience and leadership encompassing a broad spectrum of academic and administrative departments at St. Clair College located in Windsor and Chatham. His background is particularly significant in that he has a broad base of experience in the community college system, having worked as a member of faculty and a counsellor in addition to holding several senior management positions.

For the past two years, he has been Principal of Thames Campus in Chatham. He succeeds Ron Rork who has fulfilled the role of Interim President at Sir Sandford Fleming since September 1, 1987. Rork had agreed to accept the position temporarily until a permanent replacement could be found.

"I am extremely pleased to announce that, following a comprehensive and exhaustive search to recruit and screen prospective candidates, the selection of our new President is now completed," said Gorwill. "Dr. Desbiens is an outstanding educator whose dedication and achievements are widely recognized and respected among academic and industrial leaders in the province.

"At St. Clair's Thames Campus, he has been responsible for the development and success of many partnerships in co-operation with local business and industry within the community and fostering participation by various advisory groups to enhance the quality and relevancy of programs."

Gorwill also thanked members of the Sir Sandford Fleming College community for assisting the Search Committee in establishing the criteria for the President's position.

"In emphasizing the importance of commitment, particularly with respect to students and staff, we are recognizing the importance of human development and the President's role in setting the course that will lead us through the third decade," said Gorwill. "The challenges of the future will depend on our ability to cope with change and focus on a clearly defined vision in line with the desired direction.

"We will continue to seek out new opportunities and educational partnerships with other institutions, such as boards of education and universities," he added.

Gorwill also expressed appreciation to Interim President Rod Rork. "Mr. Rork's contributions have been invaluable during this period and he has done an excellent job continuing to build and strengthen the established systems and facilitate new opportunities to keep the college moving ahead."

In his introductory remarks to staff assembled at various college locations, Desbiens acknowledged the key role played by both St. Clair and Sir Sandford Fleming Colleges within their respective communities and said how fortunate he and his family felt to be able to be associated with both.

"I am looking forward to my new responsibilities at the college and to fulfilling an active role within the various communities," he said. "I hope to have many opportunities for dialogue internally and externally and discussion of issues. Communication is vital, and I am anxious to work together to strengthen the identity of the college and its responsiveness to the present and future needs of our students and society."

The Scenic Highway 35 Association's annual Snowmobile Balloon run was carried out in ideal weather conditions February 27, attracting more participants than in previous years. This is the third year for the entertaining event which allows riders to win prizes from participating merchants. This convoy of snowmobilers from Gooderham made their way to Minden by the early afternoon to receive their balloons from Bob Patton at North Shore Lawn and Garden.

Davidson still missing

Family and friends of 23-year-old Danny Davidson are very concerned about his whereabouts since he went missing more than three weeks ago.

"We're very worried about him," said Debbie Fisher, with whom Davidson was staying before he disappeared on the morning of February 11. "We'd like to know if he's alive or dead."

Before leaving that morning, Fisher said Davidson had left a note saying he would be back that day. However, he did not return, and the Minden OPP was notified. Constable Al Bibby is leading the investigation.

Davidson was in the Minden area working on tree girdling before he went missing. "It's as though he disappeared off the face of the earth," said Fisher., She is sure he did not leave the area, because he did not take any of his belongings.

Davidson is described as 5' 7", 140 lbs., with long brown hair and brown eyes. He was last seen wearing a grey leather jacket, a black "Jack Daniels" hat, blue jeans and cowboy boots. Under his jacket he was wearing a blue and red plaid lumber jack shirt. He was also wearing a dagger-shaped earring in his left ear.

Anyone with any information on Davidson's whereabouts is asked to contact the police.

Sled hits tree, man injured

Doug Mahood, 38, of Agincourt, was injured when he lost control of his 1979 Kawasaki snowmobile and collided with a tree.

The accident occurred on Buller Road at the Clear Lake Road in Lutterworth Township last week. Mahood was taken by ambulance to the Minden Hospital.

Minden OPP Constable Ron Buchanan investigated the accident.

Crash traps victim for an hour

A 21-year-old Gooderham man was trapped in his car for about an hour last week when he was involved in a head-on collision on Highway 121 east of the Allsaw Bridge.

Robert Traviss was taken to the Haliburton Hospital and then on to St. Joseph's in Peterborough after he was freed from his 1976 Chevette by the Dysart fire department using the jaws of life.

The accident happened at about 9 a.m. on February 29 while Traviss was travelling west on the highway. Minden OPP reports that he was confronted by a Ford Bronco, which was travelling east in the westbound lane passing a tractor trailer on a curve.

Both cars moved onto the north shoulder to avoid collision, and struck head-on on the shoulder of the road.

Jeff Bull, 21, of Haliburton, was a passenger in the Chevette and received minor injuries. Doug Morrison, 20, of Haliburton was the driver of the Bronco and escaped with no injuries.

OPP Constable Jim Morris is the investigating officer.

Work of local artists featured at Minden gallery

An outstanding collection of watercolour paintings by two local artists is now on display at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden.

Mary Wallace and Audrey Grant have combined to put this display together. The show opened last Thursday and will run until the end of the month.

Wallace is well known for her work in the media of Batik, watercolour, and especially for her painted silk scarves. Her work has been displayed at the gallery in the past, as well as at the Rails' End Gallery in Haliburton Village. Wallace has displayed her works in many area shows and won various awards for excellence.

Grant has also won awards for her works, which have been entered in various shows in the county. For the past 10 to 15 years, she has been painting for pleasure. Her favourite medium is watercolours, although she has worked with most other at times.

Art lovers will be delighted to see a wide variety of local scenes as captured by these artists.

Charges laid as missing boat located

A 19-year-old Wilberforce man is charged with possession of stolen property after a stolen boat motor was found on his property on February 28.

Minden OPP Constable Ron Buchanan has also charged Gary Lewis of Clement Lake Road, with theft over $1,000 in relationship with a 1985 Honda three-wheel ATV which was also found on his property.

Lewis is to appear in Provincial Court in Minden on April 6 to face the charges.

Lutterworth council notes

The following items were dealt with at the March 1 meeting of Lutterworth Township Council:

Road allowance

A request to purchase the unopened road allowance between Part of Lot 25, Concession 6 and Part of Lot 23, Concession 7 was turned down by council.

Alan Lee Colby and John McLean approached council to ask if they could purchase the allowance which leads to Gull Lake. Because the allowance crosses a sheer cliff, they said it has no value for road building. However, council felt the allowance should be retained, and by concensus, refused to sell the property.

Severance

Council will be seeking advice about its obligations for road maintenance before it agrees to a severance of property along the Iron Mine Road.

Curry Bishop approached council seeking approval for a severance application which would see the creation of eight lots out of the present one. Council advised him that any severances that create more than three new lots would require a plan of subdivision. Bishop then suggested the property could be split up into four lots.

Although this would avoid the need for a plan of subdivision, it would also

Volunteers

For years to come, Canadians will remember with pride the 16 days when our country was the focus of the world as the 15th Olympic Winter Games were staged in Calgary, Alberta.

From the beginning of the Olympic torch relay until the final closing ceremonies when the flame was finally extinguished this country showed the world its best side. We as Canadians can be proud of our athletes for their fine performances. We should also be proud of ourselves and our country for the ability to organize an event in such fashion.

On a more local note, many residents of Haliburton County will have reason to remember this Olympic year, thanks to our federal government and its Celebration '88 Awards. Unlike our Olympic athletes who enjoy the recognition that comes with their achievements, the many people in this county who give unselfishly of their time, effort and money to ensure success in local endeavours are seldom thanked or rewarded for their dedication.

Human nature dictates that criticism is applied much more readily than praise. Thus, those who work to make our communities great are rarely congratulated for a job well done. This is why the certificates and medals passed out by our local Member of Parliament Bill Scott are so obviously appreciated and will be treasured by their bearers.

Scott, who rightly deserves a medal of his own, was busy travelling to all the communities in this riding throughout the duration of the Games to present the Celebration '88 Awards. And on each stop along the way, he was sure to mention that similar awards should be made in each community on an annual basis.

On this we agree. While some municipalities in Haliburton County already give an annual award to their citizen of the year, there are others yet to initiate such a program. We feel that an awards program of this nature not only recognizes the achievements of an individual, but also encourages others to become more involved in their communities.

1988 has started out as a great year in Haliburton County and across Canada. Let's carry the momentum by becoming involved as a volunteer in at least one of the many organizations that make the Highlands what they are.

Toxic waste problems

Editor:

Citizens groups in the Niagara area, with the aid of a topnotch environmentalist, John Jackson, are working for the best possible system to get rid of toxic waste.

Up to 80% of toxic waste can be eliminated by reduction, re-use, recycling and reclamation. That is our number one priority.

While the Ontario Waste Management Corporation pays lip service to recycling, it has spent only one per cent of its large budget for this purpose. Furthermore it would need waste oil and solvents (which could be recycled) to fuel its rotary kilns.

We favour a flexible, decentralized system with regional facilities as well as on-site treatment, This would include above-ground storage of treated, solidified waste residue with a leachate system. We want the best modern technology.

If you would like more information, please write to me c/o Niagara Citizens for Modern Waste Management, R. R. 1, Grimsby, Ontario.

R. Laskarin,
Secretary.

Shriller whistle catches the players ear

by Arthur Black

Next time you watch a basketball, football or hockey game, do me a favour: listen really, really close.

Never mind the roar of the crowd or the oofs and grunts of the contestants, I want you to listen for something else: the referee's whistle.

Sound a little different to you? Shriller? More piercing? Louder?

The man responsible for that is a soft-spoken Hamilton, Ontario chap by the name of Ron Foxcroft. Ron's a professional basketball referee - has been for the past 25 years. And for the best part of those 25 years Ron's been flummoxed and confounded by the main piece of equipment in the referee's arsenal: the whistle.

Now, referee's whistles look simple - and they are, fairly. Just a hunk of injection-molded high impact plastic with a hole to blow in, a hole at the other end to let the air escape, and somewhere in its innards a pea that rattles around in the air stream, crating a 'trill'.

But the traditional referee's whistle comes with build-in problems. Overblowing is one. If you blow too hard the whistle jams and produces little or no sound. Ever see a referee, cheeks bubbling, eyeballs bulging, forehead turning magenta? Chances are he's overblowing.

But the big problem with traditional referee's whistles is a very simple one. It just isn't loud enough. Oh it'll do for a Leaf-Canuck game where the audience is dozing off and there's not much crowd noise. But in big games when the noise gets up to eardrum shriveling levels, the players just can't hear the whistle blow.

Ron Foxcroft found that out while refereeing a game during a pre-Olympic basketball tournament in Sao Paulo, Brazil back in 1984. The game was a crucial one. The crowd was backing the home team with noise

A plea for an end to minor hockey violence

Editor:

I am a minor hockey parent/coach who has become appalled at the violence that seems to have infiltrated the game. I am presently trying to conduct a province-wide survey to see if there are others who feel as I do - that a major change is needed in minor hockey.

The only plausible way I can see to do this survey is through the local papers of Ontario. Therefore, I am writing you to ask for your help. Would you please print the accompanying letter in your paper? By printing this letter you may be helping the development of Canada's greatest game, and making it more fun for thousands of children.

Please rest assured that my only motive for this survey is to make the game of hockey safer and more fun for the thousands of our children who love to play this game.

Dear Minor Hockey Parents of Ontario:

I am writing this letter to you as a fellow minor hockey parent and coach, because I need your opinion, and your help. Over the past six or seven years I have become increasingly appalled at the amount of unnecessary violence and use of intimidation tactics that seem to have become part of minor hockey. I am now at the point where I have decided that my three boys will not be allowed to play O.M.H.A. hockey beyond the Atom level (body contact starts at the Pee Wee age group) unless something is done to clean up the game. If you have had, or are having, the same thoughts, then perhaps we can join together and help change this great game for the better.

What I am proposing to you is the elimination of body contact in all levels of minor hockey. Tyke, Novice, Atom, Oldtimers, and most men's Rec. leagues now play no contact hockey and I don't think you'd find many of them saying that the game has deteriorated because of the lack of hitting. To the contrary, most will tell you that both the speed of the game and the skill of the players has increased. My personal opinion is that a combination of high emotions, sometimes questionable coaching tactics, a feeling of invulnerability, and inconsistent officiating, all combine to present a problem with too many variables to allow for a quick solution under the present format. I feel a makers, bugles and all the lung power they could muster. A foul was committed at centre court, Foxcroft blew his whistle ...

And nothing happened.

Oh, Foxcroft blew alright, but no one could hear him. Play carried on for another ten seconds until a brief lull in the wall of sound alerted the people that Foxcroft was blowing his lungs out. By then nobody knew why he was whistling. It nearly caused a riot.

Ron Foxcroft got together with an American referee friend and together they approached a design engineer in Toronto.

They told him what they wanted - a pretty simple thing - a new whistle that worked better than the old one.

Three and a half years, ten prototypes and more than $100,000 later, they came up with the Fox 40. Looks pretty much like a traditional whistle without the pea, but the sound is ...

Unmistakable. Foxcroft describes it as piercing, shrill and pulsating. I don't know how to describe it except to say that if somebody blew it at me, I would stop whatever I was doing immediately.

And possibly lie on my back whimpering like a hound.

American sports people are enchanted with the Fox 40. They are ordering it by the boxcar.

How about Canadian sports people - are they taking to the Fox 40?

Not very quickly.

"When I show it to Americans" says Foxcroft, "they blow it once or twice and say 'Great! Gimme a dozen of 'em." But Canadian referees don't even want to try it. They say 'No thanks, I like my old whistle.' ".

But the tide is turning. Cautious conservative Canucks are slowly lining up to test, then buy the new whistle. Foxcroft asked one Canadian customer - a fellow who wouldn't even look at the new whistle a few weeks earlier - why he'd changed his mind.

"Oh I read that magazine story" muttered the reluctant convert. "I figured if Sports Illustraded did a story on 'em they must be alright."

Chainsaw editing mars Olympic coverage

jack's world

by publisher Jack Brezina

As the country slowly recovers from the 16-day high brought on by the carnival of winter sports in Calgary, we have an opportunity to reflect on the excitement and fascination created by the Olympic Games. A few items from my own notebook for your consideration:

The Olympic games were truly a Canadian festival of spirit and community. The pride of being a Canadian and the sense of belonging felt during the Olympics could only be rivalled by the unprecedented outpouring of emotion which accompanied the 1967 celebration of the nation's 100th birthday. Expo '67 provided the centrepiece for that year of celebration, just as everyone's attention focused on Calgary last month.

The excitement felt by Canadians was undoubtedly first sparked by the phenomenal success of the Olympic torch relay, as it brought the spirit of the games into communities across the country. The brief encounter most people experienced as the runners carried the torch past them seemed to be enough to bring home to each individual a small but very personal bit of the Olympic spirit. And, as the railways of another century forged the bonds which created a unified nation, from sea to sea, the passage of the torch from runner to runner, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and on to Calgary, recreated the unifying symbol just as strong as those steel rails.

Despite the deep emotional commitment Canadians made to the Games, it seems that our two national television networks would not or could not convey that feeling to their viewers. I am generally not a 'television person', but I was willing to find the hour or more a day to get my regular fix of The Games via television. Physical limitations on the homefront meant I had to be content with the CBC's one hour evening highlight package. Remembering the excellent job the country's national network did in presenting the 1984 summer games in Los Angeles, I expected this one hour nightly summary would be so well produced that I would not regret my lack of access to CTV, the Olympic's official television broadcaster, and its more extensive coverage.

My hopes were quickly dashed however when CBC TV chopped its way through the opening ceremonies, cutting the event to shreds with endless commercial breaks and demonstrating little sympathy for the work of the organizers or the desire of viewers to try to feel a part of the excitement unfolding in Calgary. The chainsaw school of broadcasting was the order of the next 16 days, with what seemed to be a non-stop string of commercials, inane features, and pointless digressions that relegated the competitions to what appeared to be a mere afterthought.

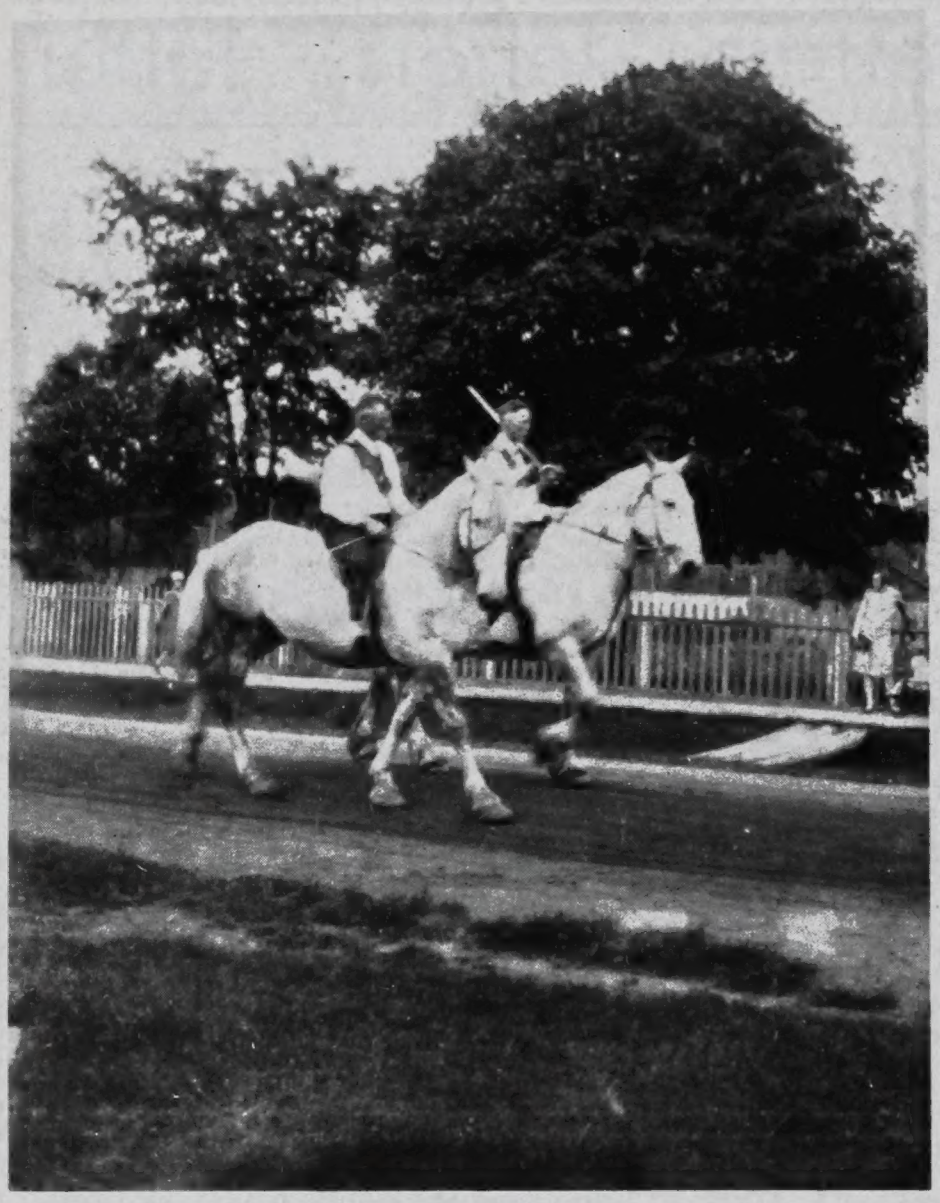
I saw little of the CTV coverage, but understand it was also a disjointed display of the games, despite the additional coverage time. More than once during the two weeks, I overheard people admitting, somewhat sheepishly, that they were watching the Calgary Olympics on the U.S. ABC television network because of the superior coverage.

One gem among these broadcasting lumps of coal was CBC Radio. Despite the lack of a visual component, the CBC Radio team made the Olympics come alive for the listeners, and provided excellent coverage throughout each day.

A small tempest in a teapot raged over the participation of nouveau amateurs such as the Jamaican Bobsled Team and Fast Eddie Edwards the British team's ski jumper. Both represented a refreshing infusion of humanity in what is edging close to the celebration of elites. While some individuals complained that these "unqualified" competitors demeaned the efforts of more serious athletes, I couldn't help but feel a sympathetic pang of support as they participated, knowing full well they were battling unassailable odds.

While most of us admire the expertise, dedication, and success of such individuals as Brian Orser, Karen Percy and Elizabeth Manley, we know there is, or was, little likelihood we could ever be as talented as they. But somehow, we can relate more easily with the strivings of the like of The Eagle or a bobsled team based in a tropical country. Perhaps it is because we recognize in their efforts, constant struggle and limited opportunity for success, a parallel in the human condition to attempt to get ahead, to strive, no matter what the odds.

We're fortunate, it's a leap year. That means we'll get a double dose of Olympic fever. This summer the focus will move to Seoul, South Korea for the summer games. But, while the summer games may involve more nations, a greater number of competitors and sports, the Calgary Olympics will always retain a special place in the hearts of Canadians for many years to come.



Orange Day parades were always a popular attraction in this area and the focus of many photographs. The Minden Historical Society recently received this and a number of other pictures of one of the old parades and is hoping that someone will be able to help identify the location of this shot. If you can help, contact Stan Hill in Minden.

Dysart honours residents

Although the Olympic flame in Calgary flickered and died during the closing ceremonies on Sunday, February 28, the spirit of the Olympic games was still being celebrated at the Dysart Community Centre on Monday.

The six medalists for Dysart were Marla MacNaull, Ron Stackhouse, Bob Colliver, Claude Parish, Len Salvatori and the late Albert LaRue.

LaRue won the sponsorship medal for donating his buses through LaRue Bus Lines for use by local teams. Parish won the official's medal for his involvement in local hockey as a referee. Colliver won the coaching medal for his involvement in coaching young athletes at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Stackhouse was named the best male athlete after playing hockey for a number of years in the NHL. MacNaull is the best female athlete, and was nominated for this medal for her involvement in various sports and especially for her achievements as a member of the McMaster University hockey team.

In addition to the medals, Dysart et al Townships along with Bill Scott and the federal government honoured numerous volunteers for their contributions of time and effort to the community. Olympic dream a reality

Don't Fwown - Snile - Spring is on its way.

Today a dollar earned is a quarter saved.

My friend Amy is a little worried about this year's income tax. She thinks she made it out wrong. She finds she has 42¢ left. Good luck, I say!

Glad to hear of the new Staanworth Apts. funding is assured. We look forward to their friendship.

Our regular monthly supper was held this week and was very tasty and was enjoyed by all present. (Many of our folk were too ill to attend. We wish them well very soon.) Chicken, vegetables, cole slaw, salads made up this appetizing meal. Birthday cake was served for Florence Lindsay and her fellow residents to celebrate her birthday. I think she was 39 years old - and counting!!! Many happy days ahead, Florence.

Doris Foster was rushed to hospital recently, but was able to return after a short stay. Keep well, Doris.

George Davidson has had to return to hospital after a short stay home. We wish you a speedy recovery, George.

Sincere sympathy is extended to Henry Howe and family on the death of wife and mother, Vera Howe. She was a shy and gentle lady who endeared herself to all us here in Staanworth Apts. We shall miss her very much.

Yes, a dream became a reality. After four years of preparation, Calgary became the host, very capably, of the XV Winter Olympics. This was indeed a reality spoken of by the President of the World Sports Association to be the best yet held. We say Congratulations, Calgary, the staff in control and participants. As I watched the various events take place, I felt very deeply. I am so glad to be a Canadian. The super spectacular opening and closing ceremonies, aroused my pride in all those who made them possible and so dramatic. To see Brian Orser carrying our flag; to see those wonders, the Snowbirds, flying past in colours in salute; the Dove of peace released; to see our two Ontario silver medallists, Elizabeth Manley and Brian Orser, who brought the Olympiad closer home and made us proud of these young people; to witness 57 countries displaying their athletes' skills and camaraderie; are all contributors to making this world a place fit to live in and to say to our youth - well done - the future is in your hands.

To watch the Olympic torches a feeling of warm passed through us all and became an inspiration to all who participated, who watched, and to our social Convenor, Jean Marsh. Jean prepared candles and led our residents in a file from the dart room to the lounge where a circle was formed around our resident, Harry Cowan. All sang O Canada. The flames were extinguished and all gathered to honour Harry, who was a recipient of the Volunteer's medal from Olympic Celebration '88 awards. He was for some years a very reliable and dedicated volunteer in youth sports programs. (May I add that Mark Vasey was also a recipient. Son Hugh accepted this award on Mark's behalf). Lapel pins from Haliburton County and Townships of Anson, Hindon & Minden. These all were presented at the arena previously. We congratulate you both.

You have been wonderful readers. You stayed and read this all.

Thank you. M.H.

Bantams second in play-off, meet Manvers in finals

The long struggle by the Minden Bantam Monarchs to win a final playoff berth ended last week in success, as the team looks forward to a challenging best-of-five series with Manvers.

The Monarchs have been playing some tremendous hockey over the past few weeks, building a lead in the round-robin playoff series. However, a disappointing showing against Bobcaygeon last week edged them back into second spot.

Coach Jerry Campbell said the team really wasn't at its best for the February 27 match with Bobcaygeon. Although the Monarchs had beaten this team previously in playoff action, they fell 12 - 2 on their home ice.

Darren Sawyer and Rob Ackerblade did the scoring in this game for Minden. Jaime Dollo and Corbie Kent each earned an assist on the goals.

After that showing, the Monarchs regained their spark to go on and defeat Ops the following night in a rough match.

The Ops team took 42 minutes in penalty time and had three players suspended for fighting as the referees struggled to keep the game under control. Minden took 32 minutes in penalties in this match.

The important part of the game, though, was the score. Minden scored five goals to Ops' two with Aaron Hie putting in a strong performance in the net for the Monarchs.

Kyle Hewitt and Jaime Dollo were the leading goal scorers in this game. They each racked up two goals and an assist. Hunter Obee scored the team's fifth goal, while Rob Ackerblade and Mike Muli each picked up an assist.

The final playoff series with Manvers was to begin last Thursday in Minden. On Sunday they were on the road for the second game. And, this Wednesday, they travel again to Manvers for a game at 8 p.m.

If necessary, a fourth game is slated for Thursday at 9 p.m. in Minden. A fifth game would be played on March 13 back in Manvers.

Campbell is expecting a very close battle with this team for the championship. They met four times in the round-robin series with each winning twice.

major change is necessary, and that the elimination of body contact is the answer.

I have taken the following statistics from a recent Hockey Development Council pamphlet to help illustrate a point:

1. There are approximately 38,855 players registered with the OMHA and another 150,000 in House Leagues.

2. There are only 300 players in the OHL (Mjr. Jr. A), which is the main feeding grounds for professional hockey.

3. Less than 1 per cent of all amateur hockey players in Canada will turn professional and in 1983 only .1 per cent played in the NHL.

My point is this: over 99 per cent of all hockey players play the game for fun and recreation. It is not a means of earning a living; it is a game. I feel we should do whatever is necessary to keep it as much fun as possible and let those few who decide to make hockey a career, learn the hitting skills from professional coaches.

My main concerns are: 1. keep the game fun for all players; 2. eliminate the fear factor and intimidation tactics; 3. protect the smaller players; 4. allow for greater skills development by taking the emphasis off hitting.

Thank you all for your help.

Kevin Dunlop,
Bracebridge.

Kevin Dunlop is seeking input from other hockey parents in order to compile data, which he hopes to present to the OMHA before the next hockey season begins. If you are concerned about violence in minor hockey and would like to see body contact eliminated, contact Kevin Dunlop, Box 1168, Bracebridge.

Seniors fund topped up

A large increase in funding for programs that assist senior citizens who wish to remain living independently could come as good news to the Haliburton Red Cross Homemakers program.

Ruby Way, program coordinator, said she is not yet sure if the $12.3-million increase in funding by the federal ministry of Senior Citizens' Affairs will translate into more dollars for the Homemakers service, but she is hoping.

Mavis Wilson, Minister for Senior Citizens' Affairs, announced the increased funding in mid February. This is in addition to a $7.9-million increase which was announced in early January.

The homemakers program provides essential services to seniors living independently in Haliburton County. However, it is faced with a shortage of people willing or capable of doing the work, and Way believes an increase in the pay for these jobs would solve the problem of attracting new homemakers.

Recently, the pay for this job was increased to $5 per hour. However, the program is still in need of three more homemakers in the Minden area. Way would like to see the pay

Leads skip in seniors 'spiel

submitted by Stan Hill

The Senior Curlers launched another attack against the winter blahs as they held their second Sunday Fun Day on February 28.

Positions were rotated after every end - and didn't the rank and file learn just how easy it is to hold the broom, yell "sweep" and watch their "serfs" huff and puff to bring the stone into the circle. Wasn't it embarrassing when the experienced skips played last end and came up short on the draw shots - probably tired out from the sweeping.

Once again the last came first as "unsinkable" Molly McCarthy led her team to victory with accurate draw shots and brilliant take-outs. Russ King's dynasty came a close second, followed by the "lady known as Lew(is)" and the fourth major prize was won by Lois Adamson's team.

Speaking of prizes! Muriel Riemer and Jack Harrington were a class act as they provided a dazzling array of prizes several of them donated personally. Muriel donated a beautiful set of hand-made place mats and assorted top-brand perfumes and colognes. Jack donated quality golf balls (he never loses balls like the rest of us duffers). Every curler received a prize. The last four teams received the chance to win $200,000 in the next Wintario draw.

Friends, social members and all of the curlers received tickets for door prizes. Lee Oster, on behalf of the Lions Club provided four chocolate bunnies for prizes and Muriel made delicious trays of almond brittle. (I'm sure that Gil and Mary plan to share their treasure).

The highlight of the social occasion was once again the glorious banquet of delectable delights provided by our culinary curlers. Everyone pitched in to assist Anne and Lorraine with food preparation and Doris organized the collection of funds. Thanks to the superb organization of Muriel and Jack, the club netted a profit of more than $60.

The events of the banquet hour were capably managed by Gil Scott, our genial master of ceremonies and was highlighted by his reading of "What Is A Senior?"

Can our Senior Curling Banquet and dance on April 16 match the splendour of our winter "Snowball"? - Come and see.

Men's hockey delayed because of ice problems

The fourth round of play in Minden Men's League hockey was postponed because of minor problems with the icemaking equipment at the arena.

County government under review

by John Eakins, MPP

I would like to devote this week's column to the review on County Government which is currently underway.

A few weeks ago, the report of the Advisory Committee on County Government was released. The committee was made up of a number of people and organizations representing municipal interests across the province. The report, titled Patterns for the Future, came up with a variety of recommendations concerning readjustments to the County Government system.

The next step is to gather community responses to the committee's report. To this end, I am seeking input on the report because it is important to seek the highest degree of consensus on the kind of County Government the people want and need to deal with today's responsibilities.

A committee, chaired by my colleague Charlie Tatham, the MPP for Oxford, will travel to those areas of the province who have County Government to discuss the advisory committee's report directly with councils and interested individuals. They will also examine the issues connected with the smaller and separated municipalities, as well as individual counties.

I have asked the committee to suggest, on the basis of their direct discussions, a complete package of reforms covering all aspects of County Government and responding to the advisory committee's findings and recommendations.

Our county system is almost a century and a half old. The Baldwin Act of 1849 established it as a unit of local government and it has served the province well.

But times are changing, so we must ensure that County Government is responding to the needs of communities and to ready the system for the future, as we look ahead to the 21st Century.

At the same time, we want to see that the people who will have to work within the system have a system that works. We also want to make sure that the communities across the province fully understand the implications of any proposed reform and agree with any changes.

Lutterworth opposes referendum courage building along Iron Mine Road, and uld possibly mean that township would have provide maintenance rvices, since this is eady a township road.

Before approving any verances, council will be cking to see if the muniality would in fact be ble for the maintenance this rugged road.

No sale

Council's decision to not ll the shoreline road llowance in front of part Lots 18 and 19, Concession 3 is unchanged, despite letter from Kirk Boggs, the solicitor for Mr. and Mrs. Rohr.

The nature of this section of the road allowance makes it unclear as to whose property it is fronting on. Council had previously contacted its solicitor for advice on this matter and was instructed that it does not have to sell the property.

Sunday shopping

Council lent its voice to a petition from the Association of Municipalities of Ontario opposing any moves toward having a referendum on Sunday shopping included on the ballots for the next municipal election.

AMO is opposing this because a referendum would place the responsibility for this decision in the hands of municipalities rather than the provincial government.

No sand

Lutterworth Township, like most municipalities in the county, has exhausted its supply of road sand for the winter, and is facing an increased price on the purchase of more.

Council gave its approval to the purchase of more road sand from Nelson Archer at a price of 75 cents a yard. The old price was 50 cents a yard.

Move down

The Lutterworth Township Council Chamber has moved downstairs in the municipal office, and last week's meeting was the first to be held in the newly renovated section of the building.

Over the past few months, renovations have been underway to convert a basement area into the new council chambers. This allows the creation of more office space on the main floor. The old council chambers have been split in half to make two new offices.

Home support services plans expansion scale increased to about $7 per hour.

The increased funding as announced by Wilson will be allocated as follows:

$2.3-million per annum will develop and expand Home Support Services to Indians and Natives, Francophones, and people who live in isolated areas of the province.

$3.0-million annually will enrich such Home Support Services as Meals-on-Wheels, Friendly Visiting, Home Maintenance and Home Help.

$1-million annually will allow senior day programs, which support independent living, to expand to more communities.

$1.0 million annually will purchase vans and provide operating funding for transportation services. This will enable seniors who live in rural communities with limited or no public transportation to travel to necessary services.

$3-million annually will enhance development of Alzheimer Community Support Services. These dollars are in addition to the new initiative funding for Alzheimer programs begun two years ago.

$2-million has been approved to support the ongoing operation of existing Elderly Persons' Centres and to allow for the phasing-in of 25 new centres beginning 1988 89.

200 spaces left in J.R. program

Ontario teenagers wanting interesting, challenging jobs in the great outdoors this summer have until March 11 to apply to the Ministry of Natural Resources' Junior Ranger program.

There are only 200 spaces left out of a total of 1,400 positions for youths who will turn 17 before December 31.

The program operates 51 camps across the province where the Junior Rangers stay for eight-week work periods. Junior Rangers blaze hiking trails, plant tree seedlings, work on lakeshores and much more. They earn $15 a day, plus free room and board and travelling costs.

"It's a great opportunity for young people to discover why natural resources are so important to this province," said Theresa Campbell, supervisor of MNR's youth programs. "They also have time to relax and enjoy the outdoors and the new friends they meet at the camps."

Applicants must have been born between August 1, 1970 and December 31, 1971. Applications can be picked up from the local MNR district offices.

Belated Christmas present

- submitted -

A relatively new resident of this area recently had a very different but quite wonderful late Christmas gift delivered to her home. Casey Wilson who has a small farm on Iron Mine Road near Davis Lake where she breeds and raises goats was that lucky person.

Her father, Pentti Niemi of Scarborough was the one who made the delivery. He had himself received this same gift as a birthday surprise. Casey and her father shared happily with friends and family.

This story started in Edmonton, Alberta where Casey's sister Nancy has settled with her husband Brian Bradford. Their family has expanded with joy and ease to include Michelle, five this April, her sister Tara, two in May and baby brother Dustin Randall Bradford born last September 18.

Having three children with their families so far away (Brian is from Canada's East Coast) is hard on proud new parents and so began the planning.

Brian and Nancy decided on a surprise trip to Ontario for herself, Michelle and baby Dustin on Grandad's birthday, January 28. Daddy and Tara would stay home and hold down the fort.

All went well but Mr. Niemi was away on business and received his surprise one day late. Needless to say he was very pleased with his new grandson.

He and wife Jean with youngest daughter Jennifer and friends gathered at son Peter's home near Beaverton to celebrate the next day. Because Casey could not be there to meet her new nephew and godson the trip to her farm was arranged.

It was a beautiful sunny day in all respects and after lunch which included Goat's Milk Ice Cream, Mr. Niemi took a trip into Minden while sisters Casey and Nancy spent the afternoon at "Northaven" with the children.

While in Minden Pentti stopped to meet Jim McMahon at the feed mill where Casey was a vendor last summer in the Farmer's Market.

Mr. Niemi also made another visit that afternoon to the home of a childhood friend the former Mary Jarvis. Mary is the wife of Auli Orpana and they live on Anson St. in Minden. Mrs. Orpana's sister is the renowned ballerina Lilian Jarvis of Toronto.

Back at the farm, a trip to the barn was enjoyed most of all by Michelle who by age three called most large animals goats. Oddly enough her Aunt Casey understands why.

Casey's Nubian and Pygmy goats are regular travellers too, and have been part of many area fairs. She belongs to the Huronia and Haliburton Highlands Goat Clubs as well as the Haliburton County Farmers' Association and has travelled as far as Rodney, Ontario to show her animals. Ms. Wilson understands how important a feeling of welcome is to persons new to any area and wishes to thank all of the business and professional people with whom she deals and especially her neighbours for their help and warmth.

Casey and her family have another reason to celebrate. Amanda Leah Niemi was born on February 19. Her parents Peter and Sandy plus big sister Kristin thank Jack Frost for taking that Friday morning off!

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

by Pearl Lyle

Well folks, I believe March came in like a lamb, so I suppose we can expect some real storms; but spring is also coming. Our services Sunday evening and Tuesday morning were conducted by Rev. J. Burgess and Father George Elliott.

The Ladies from Eagle Lake brought our afternoon goodies on Thursday. It wasn't a very nice day and we certainly appreciated them coming with a big birthday cake and all. Thank you ladies very much.

Our movies Monday night were "Yukon Passage". Tuesday night the Fearrey's from Haliburton entertained us with music and singing. Wednesday my son Bob and his wife Doris came to see me and stayed for lunch. He lives in Sundridge. It was nice to have a chat with Bill MacDonald who used to live in Kinmount, now of Lindsay. He took the time to see those from Kinmount who now live at Hyland Crest.

Mr. Simpson had a visit with his granddaughter and little girl.

Our March birthdays are Verna Jarvis, Angus Coulter, Victor MacBrien, and Alfred Richardson.

Mary Oliver's son came and took her for a ride and out for lunch.

We had a game of "The Price is Right" on Friday afternoon. It was fun. Doris makes a good Bob Barker.

Our sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Harold Deacon and Duncan Prentice who passed away recently.

Marg Miller came for Angus Coulter and me to go to her place for lunch. While there my sister Cora from Bracebridge and her son Jim arrived along with my two daughters Jean and Anna and Mrs. Harold Coulter. It was a very pleasant time renewing the past and looking at Lydia's scrapbooks which were started so many years ago. There were sad memories too. Thank you Margaret and Floyd for the lovely lunch and nice surprise.

Until next week.

When hope fades away and is lost to view - nobody knows what a prayer will do.
